

INGLÊS COM SÉRIES

(Where were we?)

Ted: One thing I learned that summer is that when love is beginning and love is ending, the first 30 days are remarkably similar. For one thing, you spend most of your time in bed. Your friends can't stand to listen to you.

Marshal: It was a really beautiful song. So stupid, man.

Robin: Ted, we just started dating. We agreed we don't want to move too fast, and yet somehow, we have a baby. He can't feed himself. He cries a lot, he keeps us up all night.

Barney: Have you tried breast-feeding? Nailed it!

Ted: Look, they were together nine years. It's only been a month and a half. He just needs to go at his own pace.

Robin: He slept on our floor last night, Ted.

Ted: He watched a scary movie.

Robin: It is time for some tough love. We need to get him out of that apartment. He needs fresh air. He needs sunshine.

Barney: Mmm, Sunshine.

Strip club's narrator: Gentlemen, please welcome to the stage, Sunshine.

(...)

Robin: See, this is the problem with guys. You don't know how to deal with heartbreak.

Barney: Oh, and what's your prescription, Dr. Estrogen? Eat Haagen-Dazs and watch Love Actually, till your periods sync up.

Robin: Yeah, that's the stuff.

Marshal: Oh, my God. How long have you been doing this?

Robin: Well, my dad taught me to shoot when I was a kid. Whenever I'm feeling lonely or depressed, I come here, and it reminds me that guns are fun.
