

SELF-BELIEF

(TEXTO 2)

You see the unseen, and you are willing to bring it to life, that is the foundation that you build greatness on

And it's a daily pursuit, creating milestones, designing the small wins that keep you going, that keep you moving.

That get you past all those times you so desperately want to turn around, but know that for you it simply isn't an option. That is not your reality, you have more waiting for you, and so you press on.

Cloaked in confidence, you move into the unknown seeking the day the rest of the world looks up and calls you lucky.

They'll look at what you built and say how fortunate you are. But they won't comprehend the 20 hour days, the focus, the ridicule for being different or obsessive, or nonconformist.

They won't know that self-belief trumped all of that. That it was everything.

The word great is separate for a reason; it implies a specific set of beliefs, and values. It means you saw light when most people saw darkness.

It means you said yes when most people said no. You moved forward when the rest of the world turned around.

Believe in your greatness. See it, live it, it is there and you need to know that it's there. Because it will make all the difference, your self-belief will define you.