

MÓDULO 7
INTERPRETAÇÃO TEXTUAL
TEXT 1*ROYAL NAVY – THE TEAM WORKS*Warfare Officer

Every ship's Commanding Officer in today's Royal Navy is a Warfare Officer. You will be trained in seamanship and navigation and go on learn how to operate the advanced command systems that control the ship's weapons and sensors and to fight the ship in different situations. You could co-ordinate the systems that fire missiles, guns and torpedoes, operate the ship's helicopter, control fighter aircraft on defensive air patrol or locate and track submarines. Working from the Operations Room, the nerve centre of the ship, you will control all aspects of the ship's warfare activities. You are also a manager with responsibility for the ships warfare activities. If you have the will to succeed, matched by determination and talent, responsibility will come early: by the age of 27, you could be commanding your own ship.

You will have the opportunity to serve world-wide in a variety of Royal Navy ships and may also work ashore in headquarters, training or research areas. You will be able to further specialise in submarines, mine warfare and diving and hydrographic surveying.

To add to your wide range of skills, you will have the opportunity to improve educational and professional qualifications during your career to fit you to become one of the Navy's senior officers.

Are you looking for a career that pushes you to the limits of your ability and provides you with variety and invaluable training? Would like to travel across the world's oceans, helping to make this planet a less dangerous place to live? If you believe you could one day command a ship or submarine, then aim to become a Warfare Officer.

Every ship's Commanding Officer in today's Royal Navy is a Warfare Officer. Not all Warfare Officers achieve command, but as long as you have the will to succeed matched by talent, responsibility will come early.

Questão 01

(EN 2002) The modal verb "could" in the sentence "You could co-ordinate the systems that fire missiles" can be replaced by:

- a) shall
- b) may
- c) must
- d) have to

Questão 02

(EN 2002) One of the aims of the text is to:

- a) teach Warfare Officers how to control the ship's weapons.
- b) give an account of the Warfare Officers' training.
- c) look for Warfare Officers who commanded ships in the Royal Navy.
- d) make this planet a less dangerous place to live for an officer.

Questão 03

(EN 2002) The word "invaluable" in the sentence "Are you looking for a career with variety and invaluable training?" means:

- a) not valuable
- b) invariable
- c) useful

- d) inexpensive

Questão 04

(EN 2002) Which of the given options below is NOT correct according to the text "The Royal Navy – The Team Works". A warfare officer:

- a) cannot be a commanding officer
- b) is not trained on how to make weapons
- c) can be under 30
- d) will serve in other countries in the world

TEXT 2

_____ a good memory? Maybe you are good _____ remembering _____ events or footballers' names? But could you memorize _____ order of a pack of cards? British mega-brain Dominic O'Brien can.

Questão 05

Choose the alternative that best completes the paragraph below.

- a) Did you get / in / historic / a
- b) Do you get / on / history / an
- c) Have you got / at / historical / the
- d) Had you got / for / historian / Ø (= no article)

GABARITO

|   |   |   |   |   |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 |
| b | c | c | b | c |